Guidance to making a claim

When to notify

Professional Indemnity is underwritten on what is known as a 'claims made basis.' This means that policies will only provide cover against those claims or circumstances that are discovered and notified to Us during the period of insurance.

If You are satisfied that a situation has arisen which needs to be notified You must inform Us immediately in writing and within the period of your insurance.

As soon as You first become aware of a claim or circumstance, notification should be made immediately irrespective of:

- The amount which may be involved
- Your views or opinions on liability
- Whether You consider the claim or circumstance to be spurious or without merit
- Whether You consider the claim or circumstance may disappear

What to notify

It is important You include as many details as possible in Your initial notification advice. We may have further questions but it will save time if the information You provide is as complete as possible.

Notification should include:

- Complete details of the nature of the claim or circumstance, including name(s) of actual or potential claimant(s) together with Your views on the claim or circumstance and any allegations that have been made or You anticipate might be made against You
- Details of other parties involved (other than the claimant)
- Date of Your first awareness of the claim or circumstance
- Your estimate of the quantum which may be involved
- Copies of all correspondence or documents including attendance and file notes relevant to the claim or circumstance

Your duties in the event of a claim or circumstance

There are legal protocols applying to professional negligence claims which impose time constraints and procedural rules as to how claims should be dealt with. We have specialists who will work hand in hand with You to deal with these issues and if litigation is necessary, We will arrange for a solicitor to represent You.

When You first become aware of a claim or circumstance it is important you DO NOT:

- Make any admission of liability
- Settle or make or promise any payment
- Incur costs without Our approval
- Take any action which might prejudice Our position or Our ability to investigate a claim or circumstance
- Provide details of Your professional indemnity policy or disclose that We have been notified to the claimant

It is a usual feature of Professional Indemnity Policies that it is a condition precedent to insurance coverage being granted that there has been no admission of liability and further that We receive your full cooperation.

What is meant by a circumstance?

There is no single or simple definition but the following may help in understanding what is likely to deem a notifiable circumstance.

A notifiable circumstance could include:

- An intimation by any third party, whether expressed or implied, of an intention to make a claim against You
- Any criticism or dispute, whether expressed or implied, relating to Your performance, or of any party for which you are responsible
- Any awareness by You that any services provided or actions taken by You, or by any party for whom You are responsible, have or could have failed to meet the standard required or have led, or may lead to a third party loss
- A situation where You are having to investigate Your work in order to justify Your actions

When making a notification it is important that it should be in terms which leave Us in no reasonable doubt that You are notifying a circumstance. You should refer to the specific circumstances which are likely to give rise to a claim, identify a possible claimant and the loss that they have suffered or may suffer in the future. If You are in any doubt You should, immediately, contact Your professional insurance advisors or Our claims team at Fishburns.
